00:49:43 Teresa Drews: Hello from the Director of Education at the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music, Milwaukee WI

00:49:47 Midge Thomas: Greetings from Midge Thomas, music department chair, Connecticut College

00:50:08 Bonnie Anderson: Greetings from Bonnie Anderson, pianist and part-time faculty, Phillips Andover Academy.

01:08:25 JONATHAN HELTON: Many universities already require mandatory testing for students taking live classes or living in dormitories, or eating in cafeterias on campus.

01:24:12 Jennifer Flory: <https://www.wsj.com/articles/how-the-swiss-cheese-model-can-help-us-beat-covid-19-11605283134?mod=e2fb&fbclid=IwAR3ZKtyIF7CzkZLk9snMjf4MSYVaoVxs98U-cZjW1Dv-fqkV0i7hammClFo>

01:26:00 JONATHAN HELTON: Brass instruments have one hole. You can't cover all the holes in a woodwind instrument.

01:27:14 Christina Manceor: Dean Bush referenced a Colorado study on COVID transmission with various instruments/in arts settings. You can find more information about this study here: <https://www.nfhs.org/articles/unprecedented-international-coalition-led-by-performing-arts-organizations-to-commission-covid-19-study/>

01:29:27 STEPHEN CAPLAN: Yes, and that Colorado study shows that the key hole emission of aerosols is negligible relative to what's released from the bell of an instrument.

01:30:43 JONATHAN HELTON: How do we stay safe if we teach at an institution that gives little concern to the dangers of aerosols and plans to force all professors back into the classroom with performers not wearing masks?

01:36:21 Abra Bush: As a reminder, this session is scheduled to go for 90 minutes, and the presenters are looking forward to answering your questions. Please place them in the Q&A and we will do our best to get to them!

01:37:12 JONATHAN HELTON: Our university has decided to give wind/voice professors medical-grade N95 masks. They think that'll be enough. We are still afraid.

01:37:16 Jennifer Elowitch: Is Peabody going to allow wind chamber music this spring? With bell covers and distance?

01:37:33 Jennifer Elowitch: I'll put this in Q and A

01:41:14 JONATHAN HELTON: Our university has brought students back to campus this fall. 30% of teaching is live. We have had over 5000 cases of COVID this fall. Stick students are in our classrooms.

02:02:39 Claire Schlegel: I don't know about anyone else but I'll probably continue to wear masks on public transit for a long time.

02:05:42 Jackie Dove: My introverted hermit game is really strong. It will be hard to interact again, lol

02:06:48 Abra Bush: Me too, Jackie Dove!

02:08:46 STEPHEN CAPLAN: Thank you panelists for what you do! You are setting a standard for the rest of us. This has been so helpful!

02:09:07 Carrie Klofach: So thankful for these talks!
